While lingers still my setting sun, And life's last sands in silence fall. Ere Death's rude hand the glass shall break. And o'er its ruins spread the pall—

I lift the voice which 'mid the storm Of war our early patriot blest, And with its dying accent hall, The patriot hero of the West.

Te Miss Many Rogers.

The Miss Many Rogers.

A Trip to the Prairies—A party left Van Buren, Ark, and neighborhood on the 27th ult. on a tout to the prairies. The object is not known, if there be any specific one, but the Cherokee Advocate says that it is a fraction of the "treaty party" of that Nation, sent out under the advice of the Commissioners of Indian Affairs to examine the country, and if possible to purchase from the Camanches a home for themselves. The Advocate opposes the movement.

From the Pawnee Manas—A gentleman residing in the Creek Nation has informed the Cherokee Advocate that the Fawnee Manas have accepted the emblems of peace sent them by the Creeks, at the late General Council, and are anxious to form an alliance of triendship with them. This much desired object will probably be effected this Fall, at a Council which it is in contemplation to hold at the Great Salt Plains.

Ohio Conference—This body closed its labors Oh hallowed be thy matchless worth By a whole nation's love and prayers; And thy eventful being close Lamonted by a nation's tears.

The old lady completed the counterpane in about a weeks, without assistance from any one. The pirit which animated her whilst engaged in rendering this handsome tribute from ane to the great American Statesman may be inferred from the instribution. The article will be taken in charge by James H. Merriweather, Esq. of Cincinnati, and be him described to Mr. Cilov specificance. Contemplation to hold at the Great sail Plains.

Ohio Conference.—This body closed its labors on Thursday night last, after a session of nine days. We understand that its deliberations were harmonious, and that great unanimity prevailed in reference to all important questions.

[Cincinnati Gazette, 15th.]

The H. C. Jones, a Locksmith of Newark, N. J. lately placed one of his Patent Safety Locks upon a chest in New York commining a $500 Bank bill, which was to be the reward of any person who should within two weeks time open the chest by picking the lock with balse keys, or by any other means. No one succeeding in the effort, the chest has been opened with the true key, and the money returned to the inventor of the Lock. The deduction from this is, that Jones's Lock cannot be picked—a fact which renders it No. I in the American Market, and which may probably promote its sale in Europe. Jersey ingenuity need not knock under even to Yankee enterprise, much less to British arrogance.

[Somerset Whig.] by him despatched to Mr. Clay's residence.
